

Transforming Gordon Square North

In partnership with UCL we would like your views on proposed changes to the northern side of Gordon Square outside of the Institute of Archaeology.

Together we're proposing the following:

- Closing the road in front of the Institute of Archaeology to traffic (except cycling) using planters between Gordon Street and Taviton Street
- Adding a two-way cycle lane for safe and easy cycling through the area and to UCL
- Creating a new space for people to enjoy with plants, seating and some bike parking. We would also provide things like a small platform for exhibitions and table tennis
- Biodiverse planting, sustainable furniture and incorporating habitats for pollinating insects.

These changes are part of our work to make streets across Camden safer and healthier. We want to improve the area for people who live, study and visit the area by making this street a more attractive place to stop, rest and enjoy. We also want to improve the local environment and air quality by making it a place for people and through planting.

We anticipate these changes to be the first of a number of improvements in the area over the next 5 years. We plan to observe how the space and surrounding area is used and develop it overtime. We may make further changes, subject to public consultation, if appropriate.

The final decision on whether to go ahead with the changes will be made based on evidence including the consultation responses, relevant policies, officer observations, and other data/information including monitoring information collected to date.
